City Builders at Canadian Stage is a unique program that brings together leaders in Toronto's development industry to support great cities — not only by developing bricks and mortar cityscape, but also through the industry's support of the creativity and art that make our cities vibrant, livable, and extraordinary.

Through their sponsorship participation, City Builder members meaningfully support the development and production of Canadian performance art and artists, while enjoying the benefits of tickets, access to behind-the-scenes experiences, bespoke networking events, marketing recognition and more.

The program's current members include firms from various segments of the City Building industries, including real estate, construction, architecture, planning, urban design, development, engineering, financial urban management, consulting and corporate services. Add your firm to the growing network of City Builders!
